GERMANS LOSE 1,200

In Battle of Vimy Ridge--Skies Alight For Miles With Flashes of Guns.

TURKEY BREAKS WITH U.S. RUSSIA TO FIGHT TO FINISH

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, April 23 (via London).—The battle of Arras, which had been smoldering for a week past, burst into flaming fury again today, and is still raging tonight, with some of the heaviest fighting of the war in progress. The sky is alight for miles with the flashes of guns, with star shells that spread a moonlight paleness over the battlefield, and with vari-colored rockets, which flash signals to the opposing artillery. The cold east wind carries the echoes of the reverberating cannonade far back of the British lines.

The fighting today covered approximately an eight-mile front from south of Vimy Ridge to a point well below Croiselles. At the north end of the attack the British swept over German fixed positions, running almost due south from Lens, and captured long sections of German positions in front of the Hindenburg line and a great number of prisoners.

More than 1,200 prisoners were counted in this section late today and others were still coming in. The largest number of prisoners was from the 141st Pomeranians, who surrendered in hundreds after very brief resistance. A battery of field guns also was taken.

Washington, April 23.—Further encouraging reports from Russia came today in a dispatch to the State Department telling of the effect of President Wilson's war address and declaring that Russia under the new democratic provisional Government is no more likely to abandon the war without achieving her object than is the United States.

Basel, Switzerland, via Paris, April 21.—A dispatch from Constantinople, Turkey, says the Ottoman government has notified the American embassy that, following the example of its ally, Austria-Hungary, it has broken diplomatic relations with the United States.

MRS. J. M. WILLIAMS DEAD.

(Beaver Dam Special.) Mrs. J. M. Williams died last Monday at her home, near Rob Roy, of diseases incident to old age. She was born December 3, 1836; was the widow of the late Job Williams, who was a prominent farmer and great church worker of the county in his day. She is survived by three children, J. Delmer Williams, of Beaver Dam; S. T. Williams and Mrs. Jasper N. Leach, of Rob Roy neighborhood. Besides she is survived by 25 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. She was a noble Christian woman, loved by all who knew her. Funeral services were conducted at the home in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing friends Tuesday afternoon by the Rev. Edgar Allen, after which her remains were laid to rest by the side of her husband at the Brick House burying ground.

DESERTED CHILDREN NEED GOOD HOMES

The four children of Robert Hillard, who were unmercifully deserted and left on the streets of Fordsville a year or so ago by their father, are at the poor farm and County Judge Wilson and County Attorney Kirk are very anxious to place them in good homes. They are all healthy, bright chaps and range in age from 5 to 12 years. There are three girls and one boy. The mother of these children was declared insane a few months ago, and is now confined in the asylum at Hopkinsville.

Anyone desirous of giving a home to a bright, healthy child will confer a favor by notifying either of the above county officials.

They have the best wishes of The Herald and a host of friends.

The Superintendents of the Hartford Sunday Schools, in furthering the community campaign for a record attendance May 6th, have appointed visitors from each school as follows: Baptist—Mesdames Ira Bean, A. C. Porter, Belle Cooper and Carlisle Render; Methodist—Misses Lurene Bennett, Martha Rhoads, Louise Phillips and Norine Black; Christian—Misses Beulah Moore, Elenor Petty, Maggie Hamlett and Ina Duvic.

Pleasant but earnest appeals will be made by these loyal Sunday School workers and we do not see how any who is able to attend can resist the solicitations.

FLOUR, SUGAR ARE SKY HIGH

Staff of Life Reaches $16 a Barrel.

SUGAR ALMOST PROHIBITIVE

Hysteria of Consumer Said To Be the Cause of Advance In Prices.

Sixteen-dollar flour and sugar at nine pounds for $1 became jarring realities in Louisville Thursday says the Courier-Journal. All the old familiar reasons, including war demands, ear shortage and scarcity of supply were assigned, but big sugar and flour men united in laying the blame at the door of consumers who have been attempting to anticipate the future by laying in enormous supplies.

A wave of hysteria is sweeping over the entire country," S. Thruston Ballard, of the Ballard & Ballard Company, flour manufacturers, said.

"Everybody's gone crazy," according to Paul H. Creel, secretary and treasurer of Bonnie, C. Creel & Co., large sugar brokers.

Mr. Ballard said his company had sold and delivered in Louisville this month 7,500 barrels of flour—just three times the normal quantity disposed of this month of the year. His information was that all over the country the fear of "food cards" such as prevail in Germany and even greater prices had stimulated demands to unprecedented abnormal proportions, forcing a jump in prices beyond the plane of reason or justice.

"And everybody is trying to buy enough sugar to last until the war is over," Mr. Creel said. Then he added: "We don't want to sell any more sugar. We have already sent out letters begging the people not to stock up, telling them frankly if they will restrict their purchases to their personal needs the price won't jump so high."

REFINERS OUT OF MARKET.

So great has been the demand for sugar that the big refiners have practically all gone out of the market. Their price quotations are merely nominal, for their orders could not be filled for several weeks.

Only once in history, except during the inflated paper money period of 1867, has wheat brought such prices as millers are paying for it today, Mr. Ballard pointed out. That is just exactly what cash wheat is bringing now. Mr. Ballard pointed out that even the staggering quotations of yesterday, ranging from $2.40 upward, were not the actual selling prices, since millers who really obtained wheat paid $3 for it. Yesterday's wheat prices call numerous other heart-rending periods in the world's history. During the Napoleonic wars, the price in the United States was $2.85; during the Crimean War, $1.85; in 1864, $2.40; in 1867 $3.85; during the Spanish-American War, $1.85.

"OLD GLORY"

To Float From Cupola on Court House.

Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at a patriotic demonstration, the Stars and Stripes will be hoisted to the cupola of the court house, where it will float in the breeze and give mute evidence of the fact that Hartford and Ohio county stand behind the President ready to do their part in the present crisis.

The demonstration will include speeches, etc., and it is expected that a large crowd will be present to witness the raising "Old Glory" to the tower of the capitol of Ohio.

Hooray, for the "Red, White and Blue!"

HAPPY BAPTIST S. S. CONVENTION.

W. M. Fair, Superintendent of the Baptist Sunday School has appointed messengers to the convention at Dundee next Sunday the following: Steve Ellis, Claude Blankenship, Otto Martin, Dr. E. W. Ford, S. A. Bratcher and G. B. Likens. He expresses the hope that many others will attend. A splendid program has been arranged, and the good people of Dundee will make the meeting a pleasant one for all visitors.

CONFEDERATE REUNION.

The twenty-seventh annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans will be held in Washington, D. C., June 4-8, 1917.

Great preparations are being made by the people at the National Capital to entertain the old soldiers and their friends. Major General W. J. Stone, commanding the Kentucky Division, U. C. V., has issued a manifesto urging all men in his command to attend. Attention is called to the low rates made by the railroads, but we are not advised as to the schedule of rates granted.

MAY—VAUGHAN.

Miss Edna May, of Island, and Quartermaster Sergeant Earl Vaughan, of Mayfield, were quietly married at the Methodist parsonage at Mayfield. After a few days sojourn at Mayfield the young couple will leave for San Antonio, Texas, where the groom is stationed.—[Owensboro Messenger].

K. E. A. CONVENES
IN LOUISVILLE TODAY

Large Attendance Indicated

Notable List of Speakers Secured.

For the first time, the sessions of the Kentucky Educational Association, which convenes in Louisville today for a four-day session, will be elsewhere than the First Christian church. The auditorium of the Boys' High School will be the convention hall, and from the standpoint of notable speakers, and attendance, promises to be momentous.

The association spent more than $1,200 on its program this year, and more than a score of the most famous teachers, authors and lecturers have been engaged.

There will be only one open session which the public may attend without paying admission, and that is this afternoon at 3 o'clock at which W. B. Leffingwell, the "traveling man" of Chicago, will deliver a lecture.

The annual feature of "An Evening With Kentucky Authors" will be held tonight at 9 o'clock.

An excellent program for the entire four days has been arranged and those who attend will be more than repaid for the time and money spent in attending this meeting of the K. E. A.

WE NEED HORSE SENSE

Says Billy Sunday—Church Slackers Scored.

Personal work was the theme of Billy Sunday's afternoon sermon, based on Proverbs xl, 30: "He that winneth souls is wise." The evangelist said:

"God holds you responsible for what the harvest is as well as for what it might be. You are condemned if you do not warn others. I'll uphold you with the right hand of my righteousness," saith the Lord. The Lord is no southpaw.

"There are thousands of persons in this land of ordinary ability who are tired of the empty profession of faith. They beat it to church and back home again on Sunday. They never go in the afternoon, they never pray, they never visit the sick nor help those in misery, they never try to win souls to Jesus. To church on Sunday is the extent of their religion, and some of you are good specimens. If no one ever did any more than some of you the world would be in hell. We must awaken to the rescue. The first words recorded of Christ are 'Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?'

Wants Parents Who Will Weep.

"God wants mothers who will turn pale over their children going to the devil. He wants parents who will weep, friends who will gasp, workers who will groan, ministers and church members who will forget to eat or sleep over people who are going to perdition. All some people can know about God is second hand. We've got to turn from sin. I've noticed nobody hesitates to block the traffic of an ice wagon, but wait till the Fire Department comes along!"

"Pack your heart and your head with the word of God. Use the Bible to convince man that he's a sinner. You must know the Bible to know Jesus Christ and you must know Christ to know God. The highest revelation of God is in Jesus Christ. We need the Bible to show a man he needs a Saviour and to show him what to do to make Jesus his Saviour."

"It was a master stroke of the devil to turn two-thirds of the families of the world away from family prayer. You take care of this old body of yours. You feed it, wash it, comb your hair, eat and drink. But your old body'd be dried up if it didn't get any more care than you give to your spiritual body. We need special endowments for personal work—clean hands, love, a pure heart and a wise head. We need horse sense. A nation of drunkards or libertines can't lick a nation of sober, pure people. The more of sin there is in a nation, the less of national greatness."

People Are Of Five Classes.

"The Lord put good people to drive out the bad. The devil puts bad in to drive out the good. I wonder why we have to wear our lives out to get people to be decent. I'm not selfish. I want you to have what I've got, the best there is. You can put every man and woman on earth in one of five classes; those who cannot attend church, those who can but do not, those who can and do but are not moved by preaching, those who are moved by preaching, are convicted but not converted, and those who are converted and need strengthening."

"The only place you won't find one of these classes is in the cemetery. They had their chance. The gates are closed. There's no salvation in hell; no chance to repent after you're through. If there is a second chance I'll quit preaching. What's the use of killing myself if there is?"

"The hearts of some men and women are like Broadway paving—adamant. When I look at the young men and women of today, with their characters just forming, and realize they are to be future mothers and fathers, I say God have mercy on the future generations."

"Be courteous. Be natural. I hate a minister with a church manner and a street manner. Invite the invited to come to the Tabernacle. Don't knock; write letters, telephone, let 'em know you're interested in them. When you're cornered and I'm mine are on the watch we'll make this old world better until our little corners are spilling over with personal service."—[New York World.]

SIX ARE DEAD FROM FIRE IN INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Ind., April 19.—Six are dead and a score of others suffering minor injuries as a result of fire which is thought to have resulted in the explosion of motion picture films in the office of a film exchange in Colfax building in the downtown district tonight.

RID SHEEP OF WORMS.

Method of Eradication Advised by Ohio Experiment Station.

Sheepmen having flocks infested with stomach worms and tapeworms may free the animals of such pests by treatment before turning out to spring pasture. For this purpose a drench of copper sulphate has been found most satisfactory in the flocks at the Ohio experiment station.

Two fluid ounces of a solution made by dissolving an ounce of copper sulphate blue vitriol in two quarts of water is sufficient for a yearling, and a two-year-old sheep needs three fluid ounces. A long-necked bottle or a rubber tube and funnel may be used to give the dose. Most effective results follow when the sheep are fasted for a day both before and after treatment. Water should not be given for a few hours preceding and following the dosing.

Digestive disturbances, poor appetite, loss of flesh and general weakness indicate the presence of worms. Lambs are most seriously affected, the experts say. Ridding the sheep of worms in the spring will result in fewer losses in the lamb crop.

CORN GROWING UNDER IRRIGATION METHODS

(Prepared by United States department of agriculture.)

The greatest natural limitation to corn growing under irrigation in many semiarid sections are short growing seasons and extreme differences between day and night temperatures. These effects may be partially overcome by growing early maturing and adapted varieties, but it is not to be expected that as large yields can be secured as are possible in sections where the seasons are long and temperatures more uniform.

Many failures, however, are due to preventable causes. The most common mistakes are overirrigation, too frequent irrigations, too early irrigation and too little cultivation. The farmer who has been accustomed to regard a shortage of moisture as the chief cause of crop failure too often concludes that irrigation will cure all ills and insure large yields.

Corn cut away to show a baked and cracked soil. This land should have been cultivated after irrigation as soon as the ground could be worked.

When the surface soil is kept wet the temperatures are lowered by rapid evaporation, and the result is slower growth and delayed maturity. If cultivation is delayed until the surface soil begins to bake and crack, roots are exposed and cultivation may then be very injurious.

Small corn plants do not require a large moisture supply. Early irrigations stimulate an excessive growth of stalk. The large, supple stalks usually do not produce as much grain as those normally developed and are less likely to reach maturity before fall frosts occur.

On land that is well cultivated and kept free from weeds it is usually unnecessary to irrigate corn until about the time the tassels and silks begin to appear. A good supply of water is needed at this time, and irrigations are of much benefit to the plants in producing and developing ears. These irrigations should be thorough and followed as soon as possible by cultivation.

Irrigating in furrows or shallow ditches between the corn rows is better than flooding the whole surface and allowing the water to come in contact with the cornstalks.

The number of irrigations necessary depends upon the type of soil and the amount of moisture supplied by rain. On average loam soils two or three irrigations are usually sufficient. Late irrigations delay maturity.

Exercise For Ewes.

The more exercise the ewe gets the healthier and stronger the lambs are likely to be. The ewes will also deliver their lambs more easily. Some men advocate hauling the roughage for the ewes to the field and spreading it about in small bunches. The ewes will then obtain exercise by running about from place to place. On wet, rainy or stormy days they should be left in the barn, but whenever the weather is at all favorable the ewes should be out of doors for exercise. One should not allow the fleeces of the sheep to get soaking wet in the winter time.

Appeal To Kentucky Farmers To Grow More Corn This Year

Washington.—A special appeal to the farmers of thirty-three counties in Kentucky to grow more corn this summer was made tonight by Secretary of Agriculture Houston. Although the appeal is nation-wide, special reference is made to the leading corn producing counties.

"Corn is America's most important cereal," said Secretary Houston. "The production of corn should be increased this year to the fullest extent, taking into consideration soil, labor and existing economic conditions and the availability of good land in corn growing sections not needed urgently for other crops. The acreage may well be increased in the country east of the one hundredth meridian as corn in general thrives in this region."

Kentucky counties mentioned by Secretary Houston as among the leading producers of corn and where increased production is urged this year are Graves, Henderson, Union, Christian, Daviess, Grayson, Hardin, Boone, Franklin, Warren, Barren, Breckinridge, Calloway, Crittenden, Hopkins, Logan, Madison, Adair, Ballard, Butler, Hart, Hickman, Lawrence, Livingston, Marshall, McLean, Muhlenberg, Nelson, Pike, Todd, Wayne, Webster and Whitley.

UNCLE JOE'S TOWNCAUGHT IN DRY WAVE*Two Hundred Saloons to Close As Result of Elections Effective May 1.

Chicago, April 18.—Voters of Illinois drove old King Alcohol out of some of his third-line trenches today, leaving his hold on the shattered line highly precarious.

Twenty-one cities and towns voted on the wet-dry proposition and the dryads made important gains. And most notable was the capture of Danville, home of "Uncle Joe" Cannon, hitherto an impregnable and isolated stronghold of the liquor interests. Today it flopped over to the dry column by a majority of 232, thereby putting 72 saloons out of business May 1.

The fight in Danville was hot. The closest previous fight was in 1914, when the wets retained their grip by the slim majority of 187. This encouraged the dry forces to redouble their efforts in today's struggle.

In Zion City the Theocratic party, headed by Wilbur Glenn Voliva, continues in power. Ellington, a considerable town down state, went dry by 216 majority. Johnston City, in the hottest election on its history, went dry by 390 majority, knocking out twelve saloons. The village of White Ash, near by, also voted out its two saloons.

The village of Adalusia, Rock Island county, flopped into the dry column and its solitary saloon will quit business in thirty days.

A round-up of the situation, with some returns lacking, indicates that approximately 200 saloons were knocked out today.

SHORAGE OF COAL CARS

Operators Association Names Committee to Take Up Matter.

The Ohio Valley Coal Operators' Association held a meeting in the Seelbach Hotel in this city to consider the car shortage situation in Kentucky, says the Louisville Post, and C. F. Richardson, H. L. Tucker and the family reunion that followed, the son explained his disappearance. An uncontrollable ambition to get out and work for himself led him one summer day to walk twenty miles south of Minneapolis. There he worked on a farm for years at $13 a month and his keep. Then he went to Churchill, N. Y., worked at odd jobs, became caretaker at the home of a merchant, and finally arranged to spend his afternoons in high school.

After three and a half years of this studying, the family gave him two years at a technical school. From there he went to New York city and obtained work in mechanical drawing. He has been there since.—[Minneapolis Tribune.]

Don't Fatten Breeders.

Be sure and see that the hens in the breeding pens are not too fat. The offspring of any overfat animal is likely to lack vitality and vigor. The same holds true with hens. The loss of many of the chicks which pip the eggs in the incubator and fail to get out of the shell can be attributed to this cause.

"Solar-Plexus" Delivered To Compulsory Vaccination

But of all the crowning outrages cultivated afterward, the small-pox perpetrated in the name of police virus must originally come from the power Compulsory Vaccination is human body, and there is not a bacteriologist in the world who would hazard his reputation by telling you either that bovine culture eliminates a single germ of any other disease with which the human was afflicted when the virus was taken, or that this culture does not add to the germs of certain transmissible diseases to which the cow is subject. Do you know that a poison is a hundred fold more dangerous when introduced through a skin puncture than when taken through the stomach? Do you know that Dr. Jenner's admission to fellowship in the Royal Society was practically obtained by fraud, that his medical degree was secured, not by a rigid test of his scientific attainment but simply by paying a fee of fifteen guineas, and that in the department of exact research he was a blunderer, and that he did not evolve his boasted theory of vaccination from profound scientific experiment, but on the contrary, when only a student, got the idea from a young woman who had contracted the cow-pox, and from the then crazy fad of inoculation, a sixth century superstition of India which was supposed to appease the god who presided over that dread disease, brought to England by Lady Montagu, and to the United States by Dr. Roylston that this was—was—oh well, "the cuckoo that laid the vaccination egg" which means that his conclusions in pathology and bacteriology was quite as inaccurate, scanty and empirical as that in natural history in which field he made pretensions.

Dear Reader, do you know that the loudest advocates of compulsion are the mercenary, and the noisiest among these are the manufacturers of vaccine virus, who are basely commercializing the popular dread of small-pox and making millions of bloodmoney out of an unholy coalition between graftor and State? Do you know that the tens of thousands of miserable deaths, wrecked lives and rotted arms are not caused by small-pox virus, viva as the infection is but by the micro-organisms of other diseases far more loathsome and deadly, which from fear of being more explicit, is smugly waived inside as unavoidable blood poison? Ask any reputable pathologist if he would positively deny the syphilitic nature of cow-pox; if his science knows of any such thing as a pure vaccine lymph; if he believes one word of a manufacturer who claims that hisさて poison is a pure lymph, absolutely free from all organism except the pure vaccine germs, when such a thing is unknown to science, and where thousands of dollars stand us an uncertain reward for such a triumph in bacteriology. Ask him if he would vouch for the putrid pus, the rotten animal tissue of any manufacturer as being even any kind of lymph, since they are not interchangeable terms. Ask him if in any method of animal culture, the channel through which the virus passes does not necessarily contribute its own taint of involved diseases thereby, so far as science now knows, rendering a pure vaccine virus impossible. Ask him if Jenner did not declare before the British Parliament that "Whoever is vaccinated with cow-pox is forever protected from small-pox," and if it was not a singular confirmation of its correctness when our Surgeon General ordered the soldiers in the Philippine Islands vaccinated every six weeks and still many died of small-pox. And finally ask him if rigid quarantine and modern, systematic sanitation does not do far more to stamp out the disease than all the vaccinations.

Some very few years ago the chairman of our State Board of Health advised the people to, in certain circumstances, go back to the old, from arm-to-arm practice. Why not? It is safer since it is, at least, free from the bacilla of whatever disease with which the cow may have been suffering. True, it is harking back through the mist of fourteen centuries to a superstition abandoned in disgust by pagans centuries ago, but what is that to an enlightened people when bovine culture does not purify the virus, hence is no more dangerous by reason of having been taken direct from the human arm. But, now please mark this, the very day the doctor was telling the highly civilized people over in Barren to return to a barbaric rite and bespeak the favor and appease the wrath of the swarthy god of India, abjuring them to turn the hand of the dial backward a thousand years, Dr. Roylston said that this was—

—was—"the cuckoo that laid the vaccination egg" which means that his conclusions in pathology and bacteriology was quite as inaccurate, scanty and empirical as that in natural history in which field he made pretensions.

Ask any reputable pathologist if he would positively deny the syphilitic nature of cow-pox; if his science knows of any such thing as a pure vaccine lymph; if he believes one word of a manufacturer who claims that hisさて poison is a pure lymph, absolutely free from all organism except the pure vaccine germs, when such a thing is unknown to science, and where thousands of dollars stand us an uncertain reward for such a triumph in bacteriology. Ask him if he would vouch for the putrid pus, the rotten animal tissue of any manufacturer as being even any kind of lymph, since they are not interchangeable terms. Ask him if in any method of animal culture, the channel it, in your parental love and solicitude, upon which society must depend—not the State—for its rearing, you elect to risk small-pox rather than vaccination, why should he throw such an asportment of vagabond fits? His child is safe if he is going to wreck his cause by pleading that your child is a living, walking, tremendous menace to the health of his when it has such a "perfectly beautiful scar?" Heavily taxed as you are to maintain the public schools, indubitable as are the rights of your child to their infallible benefits, preposterous as it is to denounce a child in perfect health as a menace to public—on no other grounds could they butt in—where, when, and how was he authorized to exclude your child from your school when marked perfect in health and deportment, to turn it out without charge, trial record or any pretense of process of law? Was this flagrant outrage nominated in the bond when you voted the school tax? If not, who but a forger could have interlined it after the bond was signed and sealed, and does not this violation morally absolve you from the tax?

Aside from the hypocrisy of all, there is but one solution. The advocate of force in such self-evident graft, danger, tyranny, absurdity and barbarity—all too obvious to argue, has a pecuniary interest in vaccination, or is just whooping up these dangerous wares without knowing why, or it is only another manifestation of that old wall-eyed spirit of Plymouth Rock that Democracy has been excreting and fighting for a thousand years.

Thus, one by one we see the most sacred human rights fall before the insidious aggressions of the usurper, till we are brought face to face with this tragedy. Whatever may be your just and manly pride in the purity and sanctity of your blood, the very fountain of life, however sacred and inviolable you may hold your person, which God's first law enjoins you, YOU not a coterie of self-appointed cranks and money sharks, to protect and preserve, and in spite of all the canons that safeguard your home as your castle, where even kings may not enter unbidden, this odious gang may send a burly hoggan without charge or warrant, as if unvaccinated you were worse than a criminal, to break down your door, invade your home, assault your person, rape and drag you down like a wild beast and corrupt your flesh and blood, not with a lymph, but the festering stinking pus from a putrid ulcer reeking with the germs of Heaven.

only knows how many other kinds of loathsome diseases, thus, without a qualm, brutally hamstringing another poor victim upon the altar of so-called scientific research, another human sacrifice thrown to the pitiless Moloch of police power, a ghastly rite so horrible, barbarous, inhuman and beastly that Nero himself would dip his crimson colors.

To top the infamous annals of New England afford a parallel to this compact between graftor and State which authorizes the former to employ physical force to actually disease your blood, your very life with a purulent infection so unscientific, unconstitutional, un-American and uncivilized?

The writer has interviewed hundreds of people, many inclined for life, none of whom however objected to voluntary vaccination, but he has yet to find the man who would violate his neighbors conscience by judicial compulsion.

What an abominable mess we are making of a government "of, by and for the people." Why we not only tamely and slavishly eat out of the usurper's hand but hanged if we don't poke our heads right into the noose and then help him yank, grin and jerk. We are not sovereign citizens of a great Republic. That's all bosh. We are the craven subjects of self-appointed despots, simply clay in the hands of unscrupulous potters who make of us—one heard a preacher preach in St. prayer—"Jist any kind of pot yer wanter."

To borrow a Wattersonian slogan, "To hell with Compulsory Vaccination, the lapsburgs and Hohenzollerns."

THE LIQUOR TAX.

That the liquor interests in Kentucky made no real fight on the proposed tax is apparent to all who have observed the movements at Frankfort. Had they demanded its defeat with the dry forces divided as to the policy of the measure, there is no doubt the bill would have been put to sleep with the coal tax bill. No, no, they are willing to pay most any old price for the privilege of levying tribute on the morals, the manhood and the souls of Kentucky's best asset, boys, and on the homes and hearts of loving wives and mothers.

Some of the taxpayers are inquiring of us if there is any way to force the Fiscal Court to publish the Sheriff's settlements. In answer to all interested we say: Yes, there is one way which we advise only after ordinary demands fail. As the old negro said: "You can fetch out a Mandy Junction." However, we know the Democratic members will continue to insist that the order be made and we trust at least enough Republicans will join them to give the matter publication as required by law, and demanded by the taxpayers of the county.

Civil service? Yes, a person cannot be postmaster and distribute letters or read postal cards in a little fourth-class office until after an examination; yet we may send men to Frankfort or Washington to make our laws who are not eligible for trustee in a common school district.

To be a school trustee one must be able to read and write, but to go to the Legislature or Congress he may be able only "to draw his breath and his salary."

For many, many years the Republican party has professed great concern for and made flattering promises to the farmers, but it remained for a Democratic Congress and a Democratic President to give them 5 per cent money through the farm loan law, and to put many other remedial and beneficial laws on the statute books.

The Chief of Police of Paducah has granted a indulgence for all persons to kill and throw back on the premises of the owners all chickens that get into their gardens. This is done in view of the food shortage, and to encourage everyone to raise a garden regardless of the troublesome fowls of "Neighbor Jones."

The men who accepted the "call to arms" of their sweethearts in order to escape the "call to arms" of Uncle Sam, are in the "middle-of-a-bad-fix," as the War Department has recently held that all those who married since a state of war was declared, are subject to call to colors.

An Edinburg, Ind., man went all the way to Columbus, in that State, to see his mother-in-law, and upon finding that she had moved to Louisville proceeded to celebrate his good fortune by getting drunk. Takes considerably less to drive some men to drink than it does horses.

We were out in the country last week, and the plows were turning the soil. Now, if our farmer friends will just curtail their tobacco crop a little and raise more food stuff, they will be standing behind their President and upholding his hands in the present crisis.

A casual observance of the gardens and vacant lots in Hartford reveals the fact that the spirit of patriotism, so much desired by our President, is being carried out. Almost every available foot of ground has been broken and will be planted in some food crop.

A real explosion in the movies occurred in Indianapolis last week when a box of moving picture films exploded setting fire to a building in which six people lost their lives.

Henry Ford has waived the patent rights on his farm tractor in order that Great Britain might manufacture them for use in raising food crops in the British Isles.

The oldest person in Kentucky is dead again. This time it is Ezekiel McFadden, who lived near Owensboro, and claimed to have reached the age of 124 years.

The extraordinary session of the General Assembly closes tonight by virtue of a resolution passed by both Houses, the State Constitution and the common consent of the taxpayers of Kentucky.

A news item says that a cow, mistaken for a man, was ordered to halt by a guard over in Hart county, and failing to do so, was shot and killed. If it was anything other than a cow as principal in this tragedy we would be inclined to think the story "bull."

We have noticed the same description of the new one dollar bill in about ten different papers. We wonder if it is the same bill we saw in our office last week.

To stop the use of grain in manufacturing liquor would be a long step toward conservation of food. Let us have more bread and less booze.

We are now fully convinced that spring has come as all the trees are "leaving."

We must grow more food crops!

14-CENT TAX ON WHISKY.

The Spurrier bill in a much amended form passed the Senate by a vote of 20 to 13. As amended the bill provides a 2 cent tax on each wine gallon on all distilled spirits in Kentucky, and an excise stamp tax of 12 cents a gallon on all spirituous and vinous liquors consumed in the State.

"Drys" Oppose Bill.

Most of the ultra "drys" voted against the tax. Many explained their votes.

Senator Frost declared Kentucky's needs are not so great that her mortal welfare should be laid aside simply to get a little revenue. He said the people would rather pay their taxes with money than with boys.

Senator Overstreet opposed taxing the dead.

Senator Bradley said: "My life has been threatened by drunken men. My father was killed by a drunkard. I vote 'No'."

Senator Porter voted for the bill, but "half-ashamed" and "with many misgivings," he declared. He expressed a belief that the people will not allow the revenue afforded to alter their sentiments toward prohibition.

$50 A PACKAGE DEMANDED OF EXPRESS COMPANY

Commonwealth's Attorney C. E. Smith Files Nine Penal Actions—Other Suits.

C. E. Smith, Commonwealth's Attorney for this district, has on behalf of the State, filed nine penal actions in the Ohio Circuit Court against the American Express Company charging deliveries of liquor to minors in violation of law. The penalty for furnishing liquor to a minor is $50—no more—no less.

In each of seven petitions it is alleged that the company, through its agent at Davidson Station, unlawfully delivered intoxicating liquor to a minor, naming him. The seven mentioned are: Hub Lynch, Ray Cummings, Floyd Keith, Verda Allen, Wayne Patterson, Myrtle Faught and Charlie Ford.

Two cases are based on alleged deliveries by the company's agent at McHenry, the minors named being Granville Daugherty and Hobart Avery.

No actions have heretofore been instituted in this district charging violation of this particular law by any express company, and so far as we know none have been filed in the State before, but Mr. Smith insists there is no reason why the express companies or other common carriers should not be required to take notice of the age of a consignee and comply with the law as strictly as others. The law makes no exceptions.

Mr. Smith has also filed two penal actions against the Adams Express Company alleging deliveries of liquor, not for personal use, to Tom Lee and Bud Taylor, Hartford neigbor.

All the cases will stand for trial at the next July term of court.

L. B. TICHENOR FOR JUDGE.

The announcement of Mr. L. B. Tichenor for County Judge appears in The Herald today. He submits his claims to the consideration of the Democratic voters and promises if nominated to use all honorable means to secure his election. Mr. Tichenor is well known, having been prominent in the organization of farmers and also an able member of the County Board of Education.

He is well qualified for the office he seeks and if elected will make a faithful official.

Sometimes a man is so hard up for something to boast of he will brag on the age of his pipe.

Growing old gracefully may also consist in not getting in anybody's way.

EATS... "OH, MY!"They "Show" Did Have 'Em At Chapman School House Last Thursday.

The Community Fair, held at Chapman schoolhouse last Thursday, was well attended, considering the fact that farmers were extremely busy "making hay while the sun shined." No one who attended, however, considers the day lost by any means, as subjects were discussed that are of vital importance to every one engaged in tilling the soil and raising stock.

The program was well rendered, and the discussion of the subjects:

"Why I Prefer the Variety of Corn and Tobacco I Grow," and "Why I Prefer the Kind of Hogs I Raise," were interestingly and entertainingly handled by E. C. Baird, E. H. Milligan and T. F. Tanner. "Why I Prefer the Chickens I Raise" was a subject well handled by Madames E. C. Baird and T. F. Tanner. The songs and recitations participated in by Little Misses Azilee Bennett, Matilda Gay Leisure, and Master Edwin Shaver were enjoyed by all present.

State Agricultural Agent of Boys' Clubs Kercher and County Agent Browder were present, and spoke interestingly and entertainingly on the "Boys' Pig and Corn Club."

L. L. Porter was chairman of the meeting.

But there was one member on the program that stood out very prominently in our estimation and that was the dinner. Everything one could wish for was on the table, and cooked to a "Queen's taste," and the service, as well as all present, certainly did eat to their heart's content.

In our estimation it was a day well spent, and it is to be hoped that a similar meeting will be held in the future.

CARRANZA PLEDGES MEXICO TO NEUTRALITY

Opens New Congress With Much
Pomp and Delivers Long Message.

Mexico City.—Mexico's neutrality between the United States and Germany and other warring nations was pledged by President-elect Carranza in his address at the opening session of the new Congress, which was accompanied by much pomp and unusually brilliant ceremony in the Chamber of Deputies. He promised that the neutrality shall be strict and rigorous.

Contrary to general expectation, Carranza's references to the state of international relations with which Mexico stands herself confronted as a result of the entry of the United States into the world war were extremely brief.

"All That Is Required."

In the opinion of the members of the Diplomatic Corps here the First Chief's declaration covers the question of Mexico's neutrality satisfactorily and comprises all that the circumstances of the situation require at present.

This is the first constitutional congress in Mexico since in 1913 Huerta invaded the House and the Senate with troops and forcibly dissolved the Congress that was elected during Madero's administration because the members refused to obey the dictator's orders.

Several members of the Madero Congress occupy seats in the present body. Every chair in the diplomatic box was filled when Carranza entered the House chamber to the accompaniment of the national anthem and uproarious cheers from the throng which packed the hall from door to dome.

American Ambassador Fletcher formed the centre of a group composed of representatives of the Entente allies. Back of the American, English, Russian, French, Cuban, Brazilian, Bolivian, Chinese and Japanese envoys were German Minister von Eckardt and Austrian Minister von Kuhn with their staffs, sitting in comparative isolation.

Allies' Envoys Cheered.

Upon entering the chamber the American and allied diplomats were heartily cheered as they passed through the dense crowd massed about the building.

Almost as many cheers greeted the appearance of Eckardt.

An imposing array of troops clad in new uniforms lined the streets along which Carranza and his Cabinet drove from the National Palace, escorted by picked detachments of Constitutional troops wearing khaki and Texas hats.

At the Capitol that escort gave way to the Presidential guard, uniformed in blue, topped with metal helmets and white plumes, after the fashion of the personal cavalry which attended Diaz, Madero and Huerta upon occasions of state.

Carranza's speech covered almost 200 typewritten pages.

Beginning shortly after 6 o'clock he consumed almost four hours in reading. In general the speech consisted of a review of the history of the revolution commenced by Carranza in March, 1913, against the usurpation of Huerta and a recapitulation of the steps taken in the past four years toward restoration of constitutional order in the republic.—[New York World.]

NO COMPROMISE.

President Wilson has hoisted the banner of "no compromise" on the question of raising an army by a selective draft or wasting time in useless volunteering experiments. The public opinion of the country should and will stand behind him. The little band of wilful men in both House and Senate that want to substitute its own opinions for those of the nation's military experts must not be allowed to dictate or interfere with an effective policy.

The Senate Committee has already reported a plan embodying the selective draft. The House Committee, be it said to its eternal shame, made an adverse report.

The attitude, mode of thought and decision of those members voting against the effective plan are redolent of pork principles.

They were perfectly willing to vote billions for war expenses.

But they insist—after the fashion of the congenial pork statesman—on having it spent in what they regard as the most popular way without regard to whether it is effectively spent or not.

For the United States this is the first great critical period of the war.

On the decision of the question of whether war is to be prepared on military principles or conducted on political pork-hunting lines depends the effectiveness of our participation.

and the destiny of nations. The great majority of Congress cannot, must not, fail the nation at this time. It must rise to the occasion, rebuke the wilful puffedoggers who are unable to do so, and give the country an instrument worthy of its greatness and capable of effective use.—[Chicago Herald.]

GERMAN OFFICER'S SON

Enlists In United States Army As a Private; Lived In Chicago.

Chicago, April 19.—Albert Werner is a private in the United States army. Back of this simple statement is a story of heart-breaking struggle of a young man who wrestled alone with his conflicting emotions and who sacrificed everything for principle.

Werner is German born. He was brought to this country by his mother after his father had joined the German army. Today the father is a high officer in the Kaiser's forces. Uncle and cousins of Albert Werner held other high military posts.

In Chicago Werner has been holding down a mail-order house job at $5 a week. When war was declared fellow workmen asked him what he intended to do.

The answer came in the words with which this story was started.

Canned sausage and canned corn beef also has been bought in considerable quantities.

INCREASE IN CORN PRODUCTION ASKED

In Proved Corn-Growing Regions—Ohio County Included In the List.

Washington, D. C.—The Secretary of Agriculture has issued the following statement:

Corn is America's most important cereal. It can be grown successfully over a wider area than any other and furnishes nutritious food for man as well as the staple grain feed for cattle and draft animals. The production of corn should be increased this year to the fullest extent, taking into consideration seed, labor, and existing economic conditions, and the availability of good land in corn growing regions not needed more urgently for other crops. The acreage may well be increased in most of the country east of the 100th meridian, as corn, in general, thrives in this region.

An appreciable increase in the corn crop is most feasible, however, in the sections of highest corn production. Favorable growing conditions exist in such regions; farmers there are familiar with corn-growing; they have the necessary equipment available, and have adapted production to prevailing economic conditions. Farmers in such regions, through many years of experience, have learned methods of successfully combating adverse conditions. They know that the planting of virile, tested seed in well-tilled, fertile soil, immediate replanting of missing hills, and early and continued cultivation of the fields count for much in the ability of the plants to produce a bountiful yield. This knowledge should be put to good use during the coming season in order that however unfavorable conditions may be prediction of an exceptionally large crop may be assured.

In practically every county in the country in which experience has shown that corn may be produced successfully, the possibilities of increasing the corn crop without encroaching upon other important crops is at least worthy of consideration if land, labor, and seed are available.

Ohio county is fifth in importance in the corn growing section of Kentucky in which it is urged that much corn be grown.

Cedar Trees Rust Apples. There are still nippo people who refuse to believe that the apple rust is a disease caught by apple trees from red cedar trees, says a writer in the Farm and Fireside. There is no doubt about the matter, however. The source of the infection has been conclusively shown time and time again.

People planting orchards in regions where there are red cedars should study immune and resistant varieties. The Winesap, Stayman's Winesap, Arkansas Black, Grimes' Goldene, Baldwin and Passeur are among the excellent varieties which are either immune or resistant wherever the facts have been observed. Yellow Transparent is a good resistant summer apple. Wealthy is everywhere very susceptible.

Bull Associations. Bull associations reduce the cost of the services of a pure bred bull for the dairy herd. The average annual cost of service in a large number of associations investigated by the United States department of agriculture was $3.48 for each member.

Alcohol and Marksmanship.

It is stated that experiments made by the Bavarian ministry of war have shown that even a slight amount of alcohol exerts a very unfavorable effect upon rifle shooting. Tests were made with the firing of over 30,000 shots, and it was found that men who had been given forty grams of alcohol or about a pint and a half of beer registered from 3 to 10 per cent fewer hits than those who had taken no intoxicants.

AROUND THE FARM.

- Let's be careful how we fertilize the rivers by spreading good manure on the side hill in winter, says the Farm Journal.
- Keep your eye on the spot where the frost first goes out and get something in that will grow.
- It is easy to get too economical in splitting post timber and try to make too many out of a cut. They will not last so long as they would if larger around.
- Early sowing for oats is half the battle for a good crop. You are less likely to see early sowed oats that rust. The grain is apt to be heavier and the crop finer in every way.
- How are the timothy and clover coming through the winter?
- If you can scatter a bit of manure over the new seedling where it is a little thin and where the snow does not lie it will bring excellent results.

DAIRY COW RATIONS.

Important That Roughage Be Used to Lower Cost of Feed.

Since roughage is usually grown on the farm the skillful feeder will have the cow eat as much of it as possible, for by so doing the expense of concentrated feeds is reduced. F. S. Putney of the dairy husbandry department at the Pennsylvania State college gives the following general rules for feeding roughage:

Feed two and one-half to three and one-half pounds of silage for each 100 pounds of live weight of cow. Most cows seem to prefer about three pounds.

Feed five-tenths to eight-tenths of a pound of hay or its equivalent, in addition to silage, for each 100 pounds live weight of cow. Most cows seem to prefer about six-tenths of a pound when fed a grain mixture of one pound grain for each three pounds of milk produced. The quality of the roughage will have much to do with the amount consumed; hence some cows may eat one pound of hay for each 100 pounds live weight, in addition to the silage.

Where silage or other succulent feed is lacking cows will eat from one and six-tenths to two pounds of roughage for each 100 pounds live weight.

In selecting concentrated feeds palatability, bulk, variety and effect on health should be considered. The greatest consideration, however, for profitable feeding is cost.

DRY FEEDING CATTLE.

Advantages of This Method of Handling Over Pasturing the Animals.

At the recent meeting of the Kankakee County (Ill.) Pure-Bred Cattle Breeders' association visitors were given an opportunity of comparing the benefit of the so called dry feeding over that of pasture for cattle, says the Orange Judd Farmer.

E. M. Wright of Manteno exhibited two herds, one which had been raised on blue grass pasture after they were large enough and another which had been fed on silage, alfalfa, hay and cotton seed and which had never run on pasture in their lives. At the age of twenty-two months the herd of eleven cattle which had been dry fed averaged 1,400 pounds each, and at the same age the herd of cattle which had run on good blue grass pasture averaged a little less than 1,100 pounds each.

The following is the diet of the calf until he is large enough to eat the dry feed: One pound of red dog flour, one pound of soluble blood flour, one pound of ground hominy meal and one pound of linseed meal mixed together in one gallon of water for one feed. The demonstration showed that more cattle could be raised by this method on fewer acres of land than by the old pasture method.

DRAFT HORSE ACTION.

Snappy Walk With Long Stride Indicates the Good Ground Cover.

Proper action in the draft horse is important, according to David Gray, assistant in animal husbandry in the Kansas State Agricultural college. Size and power are of little value if the horse has not enough agility to handle big weight in a manner yielding the greatest efficiency.

Action of the draft horse should be clean, bold and rather stylish. In moving the feet should be carried forward and back in a straight line without padding, wiggling or other irregularity of gait. In order to get the best and greatest stride with the least energy it is absolutely necessary that the feet move straight and smooth without effects of gait.

Knee action in the draft horse is not of great importance. A long stride which covers considerable ground is much more important than high knee action, as ability to cover ground is what is wanted. The walk is the important gait. It should be snappy and true with a good length of stride.

Also, ladies, it may be well enough to remind you that one can be a model wife without trying to remodel her figure four times a year.

The trouble with the man you have to know to like is that he steadfastly freezes any of your attempts to get acquainted.

It may get so pretty soon that the practical bride will discard her bouquet and tote a bunch of celery down the aisle.

FROZEN COMBS.

Treatment For Fowls That Have Suffered From Frostbite.

Frozen or frosted combs and wattles are common at this season, whether you house your birds in closed buildings or those with open fronts. Usually the birds in the closed houses get the worst of it, says the Iowa Homestead.

Freezing of the headgear is largely a matter of poor condition of the bird and dampness with sudden changes in temperature. Now and then a healthy, vigorous specimen in good order will get frostbite from undue exposure, especially to freezing winds, but generally there will be no severe frostbite under ordinary circumstances unless the bird is out of condition from indigestion, faulty nutrition, too much handling, etc.

Exposure to severe cold winds when headgear is wet with drinking water is a common cause of freezing. For treatment, thaw out the frostbitten parts by rubbing with cold petroleum; then apply a mixture of one ounce of sweet oil with one teaspoonful of spirits of turpentine. Apply daily. Do not take the bird into a warm room. Warmth will cause trouble.

Sprains and Strains Relieved.

Sloan's Liniment quickly takes the pain out of strains, sprains, bruises and all muscle soreness. A clean, clear liquid easily applied, it quickly penetrates without rubbing. Sloan's Liniment does not stain the skin or clog the pores like messy plasters or ointments. For chronic rheumatic aches and pains, neuralgia, gout and lumbago have this well known remedy handy. For the pains of grippe and following strenuous work, it gives quick relief. For all druggists, 25c.—Advertisement.

Frozen Roots.

Roots will not give as good results after they have been frozen as though they were properly stored. They will not kill hogs or cattle, provided they are thoroughly thawed out before feeding. If possible they should be kept frozen until just long enough before feeding so that they may be thoroughly thawed. After having been frozen they will rot very quickly after being thawed out, and much care should be taken especially in feeding the cows that no spoiled beets be given them.

REVIVAL CLOSED

Sunday Night At Christian Church—Miley Sermons Highly Appreciated.

The revival, which had been in progress for the past two weeks, closed with the Sunday night service.

While the meeting was not so successful from the standpoint of additions to the church, the excellent sermons delivered by Evangelist Miley will long be remembered by those who heard him, and will have the effect of causing them to live better and cleaner lives. His sermons were about the best heard in these parts in many a day.

The work of Mr. R. Paul Arnold, the singer, was highly appreciated, and his solos were inspiring and uplifting. He has a wonderful baritone voice, and has a national reputation as a singing evangelist.
